

Honoured for his life's work: Prof. Dr. Dr. h.c. Andreas du Bois
ESGO Lifetime Achievement Award

Prof. Dr. Dr. h.c. Andreas du Bois was once again honoured for his outstanding medical achievements on 24 October 2021. After receiving the German Cancer Award for excellent clinical research in 2020, he was now honoured by the ESGO (European Society of Gynaecological Oncology) with the "ESGO Lifetime Achievement Award" for his life's work. The ESGO hereby thanks him for his lifelong commitment to clinical research and for his extraordinary achievements in the treatment of women's cancers. In 1993, he founded the AGO Study Group to achieve cooperation between clinics within Germany and to improve standards in gynaecological oncology. The studies of the AGO Study Group are among the milestones in gynaecological oncology and the national and international structures he helped to establish form the basis of the clinical study landscape in Europe. The results of the AGO studies have defined the worldwide standard in ovarian cancer therapy.

Professor Andreas du Bois is the first German recipient of the "ESGO Lifetime Achievement Award".
